Council and Board of Trustees of Public Affairs Plan to Co-operate For The Efficiency of Wauseon's Public Service

Preliminary disposed of by the plan. The council on their part argued minute reading and adoption, including the granting of a permit to Mr. Avery, the proprietor of Avery Inn to construct a porch in front of that hostelry, the former Blair Hotel on Depot Street.

Mr. Avery was present to explain that through misunderstanding the porch before he had secured the permit but that it was not his intention to try to put anything "over" the council in so doing. The council readily granted the permit after receiving approval of the construction from S. H. Overmeyer, fire chief. Mr. Y. R. Guilford presented a council a draft of an ordinance to regulate the operations of peddlers and itinerant merchants within the corporation limits of Wauseon. The ordinance was pointed out in the visit to Wauseon week before last of a peddler with rascals for men and women which he sold at prices ranging from six to sixteen dollars for the same garment. Mr. Guilford pointed out that the ordinance was as much a protection for the purchasing public as for the merchants. These peddlers and itinerant merchants contribute nothing to the building up of the town or any of its institutions, they pay no taxes and they have no interest in the community other than to get as much out of the citizens in a financial way, often as in the case of the "train coat man" their wares are inferior and they get as much or more for them than the local merchant would charge for the same quality of goods.

The ordinance was left with the council for their consideration with the assurance by Mr. Guilford that if the council should determine to enact such legislation the mechanics of the town would defray all expense incidental thereto.

At the request of the council the members of the Board of Trustees of Public Affairs were present.

A bill for services from the Clark Engineering Co. employed by the council to make a survey of the various plans for furnishing Wauseon with an adequate water supply was the matter under discussion. The Water Board objecting to the payment of the bill from the funds appropriated to their use in constructing a water works plant, on the ground that the Water Board had not contracted the debt nor sanctioned such contract and therefore it should not be paid out of funds appropriated solely to their expenditure in the construction of a Water Works

DIFFERENCE IN PARTY CHARACTERISTICS

"The Republican party began the recent campaign by adopting a platform the opening sentence of which reaffirmed unyielding devotion to the Constitution. It pledged resistance to all attempts to overthrow the foundations of the government or to weaken the force of its controlling principles and ideals. Search the Democratic platform from beginning to end and find nowhere even an inferential expression of purpose to uphold the Constitution or American traditions. The Democratic party began its platform with a tribute to an individual, Woodrow Wilson.

Thus was the issue, drawn, the Republican party standing for the Company to make the survey and report to them. The bill amounted to $1500.00 or more. The council have no funds with which to pay the bill.

The alternative seemed to involve the carrying of the case into court a process that would cost the village more money.

Mr. Harper, president of the Water Board stated the position of the Board; Mr. F. J. Spencer of the Board stated that both the council and the Board were working for the same thing, i. e., the interests and welfare of the village of Wauseon and that there should be the closest harmony between the two bodies; he stated that the Board was positive that they would need every dollar of the fund raised for this purpose in completing the construction of the Water Works Plant according to the plans adopted and very probable that more funds would be needed than were at present available; the Board felt that they were justified in stopping payments of the bill in question from the water works fund inasmuch as they had not contracted the debt nor had they in making such contract. But said Mr. Spencer, the Board does not wish to continue in antagonism or opposition to the council. Legal proceedings are costly and in this case an unnecessary expense.

In view of the fact that the council has no funds available the Water Works Board are willing that this bill shall be paid out of the Water Works fund providing the council will agree to replace the amount in the fund when it is needed.

Several members of the council expressed themselves as in hearty accord with Mr. Spencer's remarks. Mr. Soule of the Water Works Board seconded Mr. Spencer's proposition and urged that there should be some minute to show the fact that the amount in question was expended by the council and not by the Water Works Board also that the council should agree to replace the amount in the fund when it was needed in the construction work. INVEST IN YOUR OWN HOME TOWN

Invest not only your surplus money, but as well your good will, your interest, your co-operation, your friendly word of encouragement or suggestion, some of your spare time your ability, if you see that is needed; Don't try to see how much you can get out of the home town and the home town folks for yourself or your family, but see how much of yourself, your best self, you can put into the place and the people how much of real practical help, how much in the way of bringing progress and prosperity to the town as a whole.

Just try making such investments and you will be surprised how large the returns will be.

Try it for a year and you will be so well satisfied that you will want until you are laid away from things mortal forever.

JOHN C. RORICK PASSES AWAY

John C. Rorick died at his home on East Elm Street Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Rorick served as State Senator from this senatorial District and as a member of the Ohio Constitution.

He was a leader in public service and highly esteemed among leaders in public affairs in the State of Ohio. His life has been a long useful and honorable one and he will be greatly missed.

NEW REPLACES OLD

Messrs Jones and Soule Grocery Store is a real addition to the business section of the town. It seems to the older residents of the town altogether good and proper to have a grocery store in the location where there has been such a store since 1863. Messrs Jones and Soule have refitted and redecorated the rooms occupied by them and the neat, clean white interior is conducive to a desire to purchase eatables.

Though their opening day, last Saturday was a stormy one, the first day patronage was beyond their expectations.

Mr. George South of Bowling Green the manager is a successful grocery man of fifteen years experience and at the same time a very pleasant and genial gentleman.

EDUCATION WEEK OBSERVED

All the churches of the city observed Education Week at their services on Sunday, December 5th. Rev. Dunham talked on The Glory of Imperial Thinking, the development of which he said, was the main task of education.

County Ministerial

UNION MEETS

The County Ministerial Union is a going concern. Every meeting is better attended than its predecessor. The last one held in Delta November 30th was addressed by Mr. Manning, Director of Religious Education in the Washington St. Congregational Church, Toledo. He gave a fine talk on "The Church and the Boy." The ladies of the Christian church entertained the ministers at a dinner which was altogether lovely and of good report.

CHARLES JEROME IVES

Outline Biography and Memoir Of A Useful Life. He Lived In A House By The Side Of The Road and was A Friend To Man.

Charles Jerome Ives was born in Kansas City, Kansas, on the twelfth day of September, 1873. That is a simple statement of a plain fact. And yet how complex that fact must have been. It does matter very much where one was born. The accidentals of the place, time and heredity of one's birth are of great significance. They very materially direct the course of after life. What was there about Kansas City 47 years ago that left its impress upon the now life which entered it? It is probable that no finite mind ever attempted the impossible task of unraveling the maze of tangled influence which touched the child's life. Nevertheless the laws of heredity and environment maintain and doubtless his life was no exception to them.

Jerome and Elizabeth Ives were his parents and bequeathed to him the normal inheritance of their individual and combined characteristics. It is not unlikely that some traits were acquired from preceding generations. It is a scientifically truth that heredity sometimes breaks its continuity only to reappear in children of a later period. What all these inheritances were we have no means of knowing. But what a flood of light they could throw upon the subsequent career. Whence came the genial cheeriness, the persistent optimism, the direction of character, his spirit of service? Doubtless from many forces operative upon the plastic mind. As likely the training of childhood and of those tumultuous years called adolescence affected the fashioning processes. His parents brought him to Ohio when he was four years of age. The new home was a farm east of Fayette. Here with brothers and sisters, he received further direction of character and career.

But through all the external influences he asserted his own will. At an early age he was not ashamed to publicly confess Jesus Christ his Lord and himself a Christian. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He threw himself into his discipleship with wholehearted zeal. He served as superintendent of Fayette Methodist Sunday School for nine years and later upon moving to Wauseon served in the same capacity here. He was a member of the Official Board of this church. In all good things he was interested and when possible for him he was active. He freely gave himself, his time and his money. For many years he has faithfully rendered payment of one-tenth of his income as an acknowledgment of the Divine Ownership. The beneficiaries of his service and benevolence are literally a multitude.

As a business man Charles J. Ives was a success. At the age of 21 he had entered the employ of F. L. Farnsworth of Fayette in the Dry Goods business. Later he was associated with C. M. Farnsworth and became the manager of the business. In 1909 he was elected Auditor of Fulton County and was re-elected in 1911. It was during this period of official responsibility that he found time to organize and personally direct the "Ives Brotherhood of Boys." He was a wise Big Brother. He believed that while it is difficult to do much for boys much may be done WITH them. He spent much time with them, being a boy with the boys and leading them from the rear. It would be impossible to estimate the value of that Brotherhood to the boys and to the community. After some years he deemed it timely to extend its benefits by merging it with an organization of Boy Scouts. One loses trace of the benefits of the combined group on grown men and distant cities. It is not an exaggeration to say that Wauseon is famous for her Boy Scouts and whenever allusion is made the name of C. J. Ives is apt to be praised. He was always planning for the boys. He fathered the band which is an object of community pride. Too great gratitude can scarcely be awarded him for his work with the boys. He was father and brother to them and sometimes a mother to lonely, homesick or tempted lads.

In 1914 he engaged in the furniture and undertaking business continuing in it actively and successfully until his breaking health forced him to leave its responsibilities with his partner, Mr. R. B. Belding.

Several months ago he was taken ill at the home of friends in Toledo, Miss and Mrs. C. B. Jennings. A few weeks later he was removed to the home of his brother where he finished.

WHY Brunswick Phonographs and Brunswick Records? LOOK--There Must Be a Reason

The tone that comes from this AMPLIFIER is wonderful and you do not hear any grating or surface noises so common in other talking machines. It has been all manufacturers aim to do away with this so-called SCRATCHING that accompanies the record and makes such a DISAGREEABLE noise. It is a pleasure to look at a machine and here nothing but the music. How many machines is there made that play without a NOISE? Whenever you listen to a BRUNSWICK see if that usual surface friction is noticeable. It is something new to hear such a SMOOTH running instrument.

BRUNSWICK--RECORDS--SUPREME

We carry a fine selection of the most up to date records. BRUNSWICK records are pure in tone and also possess a sweet mellow quality that is beyond the CRITICAL. Come in and see. Ask us about the new invention on the Brunswick Record.

We have the latest in sheet music. Prices reduced.
